Monthly Message

January 2024

First of all, a very happy 2024 to everyone!

At the start of a new year, many of us are tempted to write out New Year's Resolutions. And I would be tempted too, if it were not for the fact that my own resolution is to not have one! Not because I think it's a bad idea to make plans or have goals, but because I think that these plans or goals can be started on any day of the year.

January is a long month with short days, and many of us are tired after the December celebrations.

It is always difficult to make changes in life, and although in January we are surrounded by people who, like us, have made New Year's Resolutions, it may be easier to wait until the days get a bit longer and we feel more rested. After all, every day is a new day, and every day can be a new start!

You may remember the words from this hymn:

'New every morning is the love our waking and uprising prove;
through sleep and darkness safely brought,
restored to life and power and thought.'

Every day again we have the opportunity to experience God's love, to seek God's guidance and presence, wherever we are, whatever we do, and however we feel. The joy of remembering God's coming among humankind by way of the birth of Jesus may well buoy us up for a while – and this is precisely what happens in church every Sunday: remembering and reflecting on that joy, and together we try to figure out what this means for humankind today, here and now. Perhaps come along to one of the services or events and join in the joy and reflections! Everyone is welcome!

Whatever your hopes and dreams are for 2024, I hope and pray that they come true!

Peace and blessings to you all,

Ilse

Dear Resident,

With Christmas not quite a distant memory; I do hope you all had a peaceful time and all good wishes from the PC for 2024.

So, what has been going on this month...

- The Roseleigh development is now with Tewkesbury Borough Council's planning department, and any wrangling is now between the developer and them. We can draw breath but we are still keeping a watchful eye on any progress or issues.
- We have been negotiating with Cotswold Oak Ltd regarding the legalities of both the sewerage pipes under the PC land but also issues with the pavement they are going to lay, such as position and future maintenance. They also wish to put in some street lighting at the entrance to these nine houses. Highways & Glos County Council need to be involved so we are ensuring all bases are covered. A site meeting is scheduled for early January.
- They are constructing the village noticeboard also, so we need to ensure it is made using proper materials.
- The land by the chapel is still in the legal stage. Interminable, I know. However, instead of the land being returned to TBC and then transferred to us by them, we are securing it straight from the current owner via a separate agreement. This is supposed to make the process easier but I do wonder!

- We have embarked on a programme of tidying on the POS on the Orchard estate over the winter, which should hopefully make that area much nicer. You may also have noticed the hedge/tree line from Banady Lane along past Pennycress has been getting dealt with. The persistence of Cllr Shorrocks in getting Highways to do this is greatly appreciated.
- The pump track rumbles on frustratingly. A kind parishioner from another parish pointed out that we had not put the contract for this out to public tender, so we have had to cancel the chosen contractor and write a tender doc, which has just been published. The planning dept want an ecology report, 3D impressions and signage designs, so still lots to do.
- We will soon have Stoke Orchard honey! We are looking at installing two beehives on the land behind the bungalows on the Orchard estate. An experienced beekeeper will look after these completely and the amazing product will be for sale eventually in the Orchard Stores.
- The Junction 10 team have for the moment withdrawn their application. They wish to resubmit it shortly. This is partly down to our PC questioning the results of some of their surveys, which they agreed to redo.
- We are also working hard to persuade TBC for the restitution of £68000, which was earmarked for extra MUGA space on the Orchard Estate. This appears to have been returned erroneously to the developer, so we are negotiating hard for its return.
- Finally, we are pushing Highways to include a replacement/renovation programme for all the road signs around the Parish. The Stoke Rd bus stop has been painted (needs another coat) & lovely parish maps have been positioned in the two villages.

A very happy & prosperous 2024 to everyone!

Richard's Christmas Ramblings 2023.

A few years ago I based one of my Ramblings on why most of the older properties in the Parish had fences around their front gardens and gates that actually closed. Why? Because it was common for milking cows to use the roads on their way to and from milking, as they still do in Tredington, and large flocks of sheep were often moved by road to different pastures. If you couldn't shut your front gate, then you lost your flowers, or let-tuces or whatever was growing, but you did get free manure for the roses.

This week, driving down the Fiddington Lane, a lone walker, yes we recognised you, flagged us down to drive slowly. I knew immediately what to expect and pulled into the side. It was quite nostalgic and took me back to my childhood when sheep and cattle were driven along the roads from local farms to both Tewkesbury Market and the old Gloucester Market by the Railway Station (Where the bus station is now).

After the market, the animals were driven by drovers to the holding pens for loading at Gloucester station where the station car park is now and Tewkesbury railway loading pens where the Baptist Church is now, for transport around the country to the big cities. Some of course, stayed local in Tewkesbury and these were moved often in small groups on the road as there were very few livestock lorries about at that time.

However, lets get back to livestock on the road. Yesterday afternoon—17th December 2023—there was a major Police alert on the M5 at Junction 12 around 14.30 hrs when the North bound carriage-way was brought to a standstill while animals were that had strayed, were removed from the Motorway. When the M5 was built back in 1969, we found certain cattle would not cross the Bozards Lane bridge from our fields on the east side. Not the traffic, it was the metal expansion joint and some cows would actually jump the joint. One cow never did cross the line and we were forced to leave her at home, when moving other stock over the bridge.

That experience made me very aware of any livestock when crossing motorway bridges, and I never pass a horse and rider, however competent, on a motorway bridge or any bridge in fact for fear of the animal getting spooked. We are privileged to live in a rural setting, and we must all live by a code of respect for livestock. It is better to stop for one minute and let horses pass, especially on a narrow lane, than bear the consequences of a fallen rider or a more serious accident.

I wrote, when I retired from the P.C. about Bozards crossing and how it became the most expensive Level crossing of its type in the UK due to the Parish Council demands to make it livestock proof. That didn't stop two ponies jumping the cattle grids and getting on the mainline some years back. Fortunately I was nearby and called the main signal box. All trains were held until we had managed to get the ponies back in the field, but it shows that these situations happen.

So please, if you use the country lanes, be wary that you might find livestock of many different kinds on the road. Drive slowly with care and be able to stop within visible distance. If you were to spook an animal and cause an accident. It just might be fatal. Please drive carefully on Country roads. Animals were here first, cars came later.
